

Tandem exercise: conditional I

A (check and complete)	B (check and complete)
1. If you ... (not come) to the meeting, you can call me.	1. If you don't come to the meeting, you can call me. 2. If I ... (get) bad marks at school, my parents will be angry.
2. If I get bad marks at school, my parents will be angry. 3. If my friend ... (be) late again, I'll give him an alarm-clock.
	3. If my friend is late again, I'll give him an alarm-clock. 4. If I ... (not find) the keys now, we must wait for our parents.
4. If I don't find the keys now, we must wait for our parents. 5. If Sarah ... (watch) a horror film, she'll get scared.
	5. If Sarah watches a horror film, she'll get scared. 6. If you come home late, your parents ... (be) worried.
6. If you come home late, your parents will be worried. 7. If you don't install an internet firewall, a virus ... (attack) your computer.
	7. If you don't install an internet firewall, a virus will / can attack your computer. 8. If you are hungry, my mum ... (cook) something for you.
8. If you are hungry, my mum will / can cook something for you. 9. If you're scared of dogs, I ... (leave) our boxer in the garden.
	9. If you're scared of dogs, I'll leave our boxer in the garden. 10. If you practise very often, you ... (get) better and better.
10. If you practise very often, you'll get better and better.	